Wants Libel Laws Extended

Everett R. Clinchy, president of the American National Conference of Christians and Jews, said at Oxford, England, that "laymen of all faiths are fed up with hostilities between religious leaders."

"People have been bombed out of their habitual moral shelters and they want spiritual values good enough for this era," he said in a statement released at the International Conference of Christians and Jews. "The mutual dangers all religious groups face, and the wide-open opportunities to meet the needs of the unchurched, make religious warfare ridiculous."

Marlier, Rabbi Abrahams, South African Professor of Hebrew, urged in an address that democratic nations ban publications of "libels against an entire community or group" to prevent "such a poisonous fabrication of the 'Protocols of the Elders of Zion.'"

He urged extension of libel laws to racial literature, declaring that he desired acceptance of the principle of free speech in its widest conception because suppression would be a "form of inverted fascism."

"But I must stress that world opinion is opposed to misstatement of facts and the advocacy of hurtful actions that must never have the protection of blessed freedom of speech," he said.

Chilling memories haunt the German pastor, Hermann Maas, a German Lutheran pastor, told a plenary session of the first International Conference of Christians and Jews.

"There are terrifying memories about me," he said. "Each encounter with a Jew is for us German Christians occasion to confess go[illegible] guilt which the [illegible]

[illegible] included a Protestant and a Jewish minister in addition both of whom had been concentration camps.

Asks Truman To Press For Quick Aid

President Truman was asked, in a telegram sent by Joseph M. Proskauer, president of the American Jewish Committee, to press for the immediate immigration of 100,000 displaced European Jews to Palestine without waiting for a permanent solution to the Palestine problem.

It would be "wholly unrealistic", Mr. Proskauer said, to make such immigration dependent on American acceptance of the British proposal to divide Palestine into federated Arab and Zionist provinces, or on any other long-range solution. Mr. Proskauer also expressed gratification that the President had [illegible] Britain's program it views the solemn responsibility of a trusteeship. Its duty is to keep Palestine open for Jewish immigration, certainly to the extent found reasonable by the Anglo-American Committee."

Lessing J. Rosenwald, president of the American Council for Judaism, also appealed to Mr. Truman, asking him to deal with the Palestine problem "from the broadest viewpoint of sound American national interest, humanitarian concern and the nation's stake in the maintenance of world peace."

Mr. Truman was asked by Col. Morris J. Mendelsohn, chairman of the executive board of the United Zionist-Revisionists, to repudiate Secretary of State James F. Byrnes' "capitulation" to the federalization proposal.

In a statement sent to Prime Minister Attlee, the American Jewish Labor Council denounced the "obviously anti-Semitic statements attributed to Lieut. Gen. Evelyn Barker, British commander in Palestine, and asked the British to repudiate them.

The Political Action Committee for Palestine disclosed that Lord Inverchapel, British Ambassador, acting on behalf of his Government, had sent the committee a letter rejecting a request for facilities to investigate the conditions of Jews in Palestine and elsewhere in the Middle East.

REBUKED FOR LANGUAGE OF PALESTINE MESSAGE

Lieut. Gen. Sir Evelyn Barker, the British commander in Palestine, was rebuked by the Government for the language of a letter that he sent to all officers of his command forbidding fraternization with Jews.

"Although the Government is satisfied that the instructions were justified in themselves in the present disturbed state of the country, and making allowances at the same time for the provocation shown to our soldiers and in view of the fact that it was written soon after the outrage at the King David Hotel, the Government must disassociate itself from the actual terms in which the letter was couched," Herbert Morrison, Lord President of the Council, told the House of Commons.

He said that the matter had been placed in the hands of Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, Chief of the Imperial General Staff, but he gave no indication what further action, if any, was contemplated. Most other speakers in the Palestine debate criticized Gen. Barker for writing the letter.

Condemn Hungary And Rumania

Extensive and detailed rights for Jews in Hungary and Rumania, to be written into the peace treaties, was requested in a statement submitted at Paris to all twenty-one delegations at the peace conference by the World Jewish Congress, the Board of Deputies of British Jews and the American Jewish Conference.

Italy and Bulgaria were credited with the absence of anti-Semitism, even during the Fascist-Nazi era and the Jewish demand was merely for formal provisions respecting fundamental freedoms and property rights. Special status also was requested for the Jewish community of Libya.

The statement was an elaboration of a general proposal put to the Foreign Ministers of the Big Four on June 28 and it was drawn up in Paris after Jewish leaders had studied the draft peace treaties.

The condemnation of Rumania was very strong:

"Rumania," the statement said, "occupies a unique position in the history of Jewish persecution. From their earliest settlement in the country the Jews were subjected to all forms of political and economic discrimination and legal disability and were frequently exposed to attacks upon their lives and property. Indeed, this oppression of the Jews continued in varying degrees until the outbreak of the recent war when it culminated in mass extermination."

The statement gave a brief history of this persecution. It pointed out that of the 800,000 Jews in Rumania at the beginning of World War II only 450,000 survived. However, it was emphasized that there was "no reflection upon the good will of the present Rumanian Government [illegible]

[illegible] asked his Cabinet Committee in return to Washington before he made any final decisions.

Mr. Proskauer said that it was perfectly possible to carry out the recommendation for the immediate [illegible]

Hungarian Government.

"Hungary's long and systematic persecution of the Jews," said the section on Hungary, "reached its climax of horror when in 1944 at least 400,000 Jews were, in six weeks, deported en masse and with unparalleled brutality to Nazi murder camps where they were annihilated."

In the cases of both Hungary and Rumania elaborate treaty provisions were proposed. These included the status of individual equality, nationality rights, restitution, indemnification for seized property, rights of repatriation and emigration, punishment of war criminals, and the "outlawry of racial and religious incitement."

Finally, international supervision of the execution of these clauses was asked and it was urged that these provisions form part of the constitutional laws of Hungary and Rumania.

Only 300 Out Of 7,000 Have Work

Only some 300 Jews in Vienna have regular employment in a Jewish population now estimated at almost 7,000. The Joint Distribution Committee's Vienna office said that the Jews were in virtually the same desperate condition of destitution in which they returned from concentration camps, although it is more than a year since Vienna was liberated.

The Jews' salvation, according to the JDC, has been the United States Army and the gifts of American Jews channelled through the JDC to destitute Viennese Jewry. The Army adds 800 calories a day to the basic 1,200 calory Austrian ration and the JDC brings this up to the 2,500 considered essential for people recovering slowly from starvation, overwork and abuse in concentration camps. Outside the American zones the JDC has to provide all the extra calories above the basic ration. Clothes are also provided by the JDC.

Most of the Jews' employment is provided not by Austrian business or institutions but by Jewish organizations supported from abroad and by the American Army in Austria. The average income of employed Jews who are not professional men runs between 250 and 300 schillings a month, or $20 to $30, according to the official rate of exchange. This is not particularly low as Austrian income, however.

The Jewish community as a whole is an utterly discouraged group. The JDC is having all the Jews of Vienna medically examined and a state of extremely low morale is reported for the first 1,000. Figures on their physical condition have not yet been [illegible]

[illegible] lists show 30 active doctors, 20 lawyers, 40 artisans, 25 laborers and 50 office workers.

According to the JDC, the main reason for the lack of any improvement in the Jews' status during the past year is the fact that "millions of dollars worth of property belonging to these Jews" has not been returned. If property were returned, there would be some economic basis for rebuilding the Jewish community, Jewish leaders believe.

The best estimates indicate that eventually Vienna will have a per-

United States Eager To Help, Reluctant To Admit Refugees

Renewed efforts are being made by the Allies through the Inter-Governmental Refugee Committee and the United Nations to expedite the repatriation and resettlement of refugees and displaced persons in Europe before the winter.

It is understood that the Brazilian Government has indicated its willingness to take approximately 100,000 of the estimated 1,000,000 displaced persons and refugees now in Germany, Austria and Italy. The British Government is known to have asked members of the Commonwealth to make every effort to cooperate in the movement, and the United States Government is exploring the possibility of receiving an increased number in this country.

Plans have been made at Washington and in other capitals for an urgent appeal to all members of the United Nations to support the new drive before the cold weather sets in. This appeal will be one of the principal items on the agenda of the United Nations' General Assembly, which is scheduled to hold its first meeting in New York on Sept. 23.

The chances of taking many refugees into the United States, beyond the quota totals now permitted, are not good, according to the New York Times. Suggestions have been made to President Truman that he seek special legislation so that the U.S. can help implement the appeal that will go out from the United Nations in the autumn, but, while Congress is active in its humanitarian appeals to other countries, the feeling in both houses seems to be that the [illegible]

[illegible] to speed the repatriation of all persons who can return safely to their native lands. The State Department estimates that there are some 850,000 refugees and displaced persons in Germany today, 100,000 in Austria and about 50,000 in Italy.

While many of these can still be repatriated, officials at Washington believe that most of them will have to be resettled away from their native lands. There is no hope that any more than a small fraction of these can be resettled this year, but it is hoped to get those in the greatest distress to places of security, and eventually to establish, under the United Nations' direction, an international refugee body to carry on and expand the Inter-Governmental Committee's work on the long-term aspects of the problem.

While the majority of those listed as refugees and displaced persons are not Jews, it is believed that the Jews form the hard core of the problem. Statistics on the number of displaced and refugee Jews in Europe today vary widely, but it is generally accepted in official quarters that there are about 391,000 on the Continent and in Britain, some 325,000 of whom, officials feel, will have to be resettled.

Officials agree that anti-Semitism is still widespread, particularly in Poland. Of the 3,351,000 Jews who lived there before the war, the best estimate officials have is that only about 90,000 remain there now, most of whom are eager to get out.

In Germany, according to the figures used by the [illegible]

FORCED TO K.O. WAR BRIDE
YOUTH MAKES GALLANT RESCUE
DONALD BROWNRIGG Wins Dow Award
At Dow's Lake, near Ottawa, night was falling. All the swimmers were back on shore except the young English war bride who hesitated on a log boom, 75 yards out. She felt dizzy and had a headache. But she started to swim in just the same.
18-year-old Donald Brownrigg was the first to notice her floundering. He plunged in immediately . . . but by the time he reached her she had gone down twice. She was sinking for the third time when he grabbed her arm. Panic-stricken, she began to struggle, endangering both their lives.
Thinking and acting quickly, Brownrigg struck her sharply on the jaw. Her struggles ceased . . . and the rescuer managed to pull her unconscious body back to the boom to safety.
For his cool courage we are proud to present The Dow Award to Donald Brownrigg of Ottawa.

Senate Leader Assails Bigotry

Senator Alben W. Barkley, Senate majority leader, flew to Ferndale, N.Y., from Washington to address 1,000 members of the American Jewish Congress on the dangers of intolerance.

"The intolerance, the bigotry, and the anti-Semitism to which Hitler and the Nazi philosophy gave impetus must not be permitted in America," Senator Barkley told the members.

He said anti-Semitism was a poison which must be eliminated from the system of America. "If the nation wants a real democracy."

"The war just ended was fought for democracy," he said. "That means not only political democracy, but religious democracy. Now that the war is over we can not end the battle. We in America must take a leading part in an educational campaign against intolerance."

Senator Barkley praised the Jewish Congress' fight against intolerance, and made an appeal for support of the financial campaign of the Congress. Appearing with Senator Barkley was Carole Landis, motion picture star. Both were introduced by Representative Augustus W. Bennet, Republican, of Newburgh, N.Y.

Montreal Meetings

● JEWISH IMMIGRANT Aid Society: Packages, duty free, to needy relatives and friends in Poland will be accepted in Montreal, Toronto, and Winnipeg, if they contain used wearing apparel in good condition and do not weigh more than 35 pounds. The clothing should be packed in a white linen or cotton bag and left unaddressed. Addresses will be inscribed by the Society's staff. The cost of transmitting parcels will be twenty cents per pound and includes insurance of parcels to Gdynia, Poland, where the Central Jewish Committee of Warsaw will receive and send them to their final destination. All possible precautions have been taken against loss and pilferage but unsettled conditions in Poland prevent the Jewish Immigrant Aid Society from guaranteeing final delivery. The required export permit has been secured through the Canadian Jewish Congress. Further information at the Society's offices.

● Mrs. M. Weinstein, proprietor of Lac Raymond Inn, Val Morin, gave a tea in aid of the Child Rescue Fund. Rabbi S. Edelheit, of New York, recited, and Herbert Rosan danced. Mrs. C. Lipshitz was guest speaker. $65 was collected and donated to the Fund.

● JUNIOR HADASSAH: Henrietta Szold Chapter entertained at a tea presentation at the home of Mrs. W. Rabinovitch, Grosvenor Avenue, in honor of Mrs. Ben Naglie, formerly Miss Lea Liberman.

● MONTREAL HADASSAH received $124 for the Wise House Rehabilitation Fund, collected at Val Morin. Mrs. I. Kasitsky, president of Eta Cohen Chapter, made the appeal.

● LODZ RELIEF Association sent money to the Polish-Jewish committee headed by Dr. Emil Sommerstein, for relief for Jews in Lodz. All branches of the Lodz relief sent a total through the national head office in New York, of $20,000; and the branch in Paterson, N.J., sent 6,000 yards of cloth. For the meeting, at the end of August, at the home of Samuel D. Gross, president, Woodbury Avenue, members will be advised by mail of the time and date. Nathan and Harry Feifer were in charge of sending shoes to Polish-Jewish refugees, at that time in Shanghai, last winter.

BELL-ROHRLICH

The marriage of Marvin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Rohrlich, 922 MacKechnie Avenue, to Joseph, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Bell, 5465 St. Urbain Street, took place at Beth David Synagogue, on Sunday, June 16, at two o'clock, Rabbi Charles Bender and Rabbi Samuel Herschorn officiating, assisted by Cantor I. Syrek and Cantor P. Schlepak. Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore an ice-blue gown of heavy slipper satin, trimmed with Alencon lace, fashioned with an off-the-shoulder neckline, edged with Alencon lace, and [illegible] of honor. She wore an [illegible] chiffon gown, fashioned on Grecian lines, a matching band in her hair, and silver jewelled cloth gloves, and carried a cascade of multi-colored sweet peas. The bridesmaids, Misses Estelle Rohrlich, sister of the bride, and Geraldine Rohrlick, cousin of the bride, in blue; Joy Rohrlick, and Myra Mendelsohn, cousins of the bride, in pink; and Pearl Fisher and Esther Bookman, in yellow, all wore floor-length gowns made alike, with net skirts and satin bodices, sweetheart necklines and cap sleeves, and matching crowns of shirred satin with matching shoulder-length veils, and carried nosegays of pastel sweet peas. Judith Binder, niece of the groom, as flower girl, wore a long blue dress with a satin bodice and net skirt, made with a high off-the-shoulder neckline, trimmed with ruching; and a pleated halo of blue net, and carried a miniature nosegay of pastel sweet peas. Morton A. Katz was best man, and the ushers were: Morris C. Rohrlich, brother of the bride; Louis Eisenberg, of Ottawa, Ont., cousin of the groom; Mac Adams, Hyman Barclay, Harry Greskin, and Willie V. Plasky. The synagogue was decorated with standards of snapdragons, gladioli, and sweet peas, and the aisle with white ribbon and ferns. "Because" was sung by Harold Rosen, a friend of the groom. Mrs. Rohrlich, mother of the bride, received in a pearl-grey floor-length gown, with a matching sash, which was trimmed with coral-colored sequins, and matching bracelet; grey tulle hat, trimmed with coral-colored roses; and a corsage of Talisman roses; with Mrs. Bell, mother of the groom, in a floor-length gown of blue crepe, with a square neckline, and a blue hat with pink veiling, and corsage of pink roses; and with Mrs. E. Rohrlich, grandmother of the bride, in a floor-length gown of turquoise-blue crepe, with a belt studded with colored stones, and a blue crepe hat, trimmed with turquoise-blue mohair and rosebuds, with corsage of pale pink roses. The bride and groom went to Murray Bay for their honeymoon; the bride travelling in an azure-blue dressmaker suit, with a peplum, and black accessories. They are living in Montreal. Out-of-town guests were: Mrs. S. D. Ehrlich and Mrs. Milton Lewvitt and son, Michael, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. E. Steinberg and sons, Louis, Seymour, and Stanley, of Ottawa, Ont.

CLASS IN COOKERY

BASIC FRENCH PASTRY

Crumble one cake of yeast in one-half cup lukewarm water, stirring until dissolved. Add two beaten eggs and two tablespoons sugar, and mix carefully. Let this stand for one or one and one-half hours, until the mixture is at least double in size. Crumb together two cups flour with one cup butter until well-mixed. Roll out the yeast mixture on a floured board, and sprinkle the crumbed butter and flour over it, rolling the pastry out, and then kneading it into a ball. Leave it for ten minutes to rise; then roll it and knead it again. Let it rise for ten more minutes, then repeat the rolling and kneading, leaving it to rise for ten minutes again. Then it can be rolled out and cut and filled as desired. This is a basic pastry recipe. The pastry may be cut in squares, and turned in at the corners and then filled, like a jelly-roll, with jam, Turkish delight, jelly, or sugar and nuts; or rolled out and cut in squares and spread with egg-white and sugar. It should be baked in a medium-hot oven until light golden-brown.

Seek Rights Enforced by Treaties

Treaties made by the Paris Peace Conference should provide for the enforcement of human rights, Dr. Max Gottschalk, director of the Foreign Affairs Department of the American Jewish Committee, said in New York, in making public recommendations submitted by the committee to the U.S. State Department.

Authorities in London and Paris informed him, Dr. Gottschalk said, that while the treaties of peace [illegible] Hungary, Rumania, [illegible] Italy stated for human rights and fundamental freedoms for all in those territories, they did not provide for enforcement. He said that the San Francisco charter of the United Nations urged the implementation of human rights, and added that all groups interested in equality for all should concentrate on the inclusion in the peace treaties of measures to enforce those rights.

"Another basic task," he continued, "is to accelerate the restitution to Jews of property looted by the Nazis. While most countries have adopted restitution laws, actual return of property proceeds very slowly, due to unsatisfactory provisions for enforcement of these laws. In Germany Jewish property confiscated by the Nazis is part of the assets blocked by the Allies. Its release depends on decisions as yet not made by the military government."

Enforcement of human rights, according to the committee recommendations, should be under the supervision of United Nations, which would keep watch on the enforcement, publish information concerning its findings and receive complaints and petitions from individuals and private organizations with regard to violations.

Arabs Want White Paper Backed Up

Egypt and Iraq, acting in association with the five other members of the Arab League, have demanded that the British Government install a new regime in Palestine before the United Nations General Assembly meets in September, and meanwhile not make any changes from the pledges to limit immigration and sales of land to Jews, given in the British White Paper of 1939.

The British White Paper, published on May 17, 1939, besides curtailing Jewish purchases of land provided that Jewish immigration to Palestine would be limited to 75,000 over the ensuing five years, and that at the end of that time the Jewish population would be frozen at about one-third the total population of the mandate unless the Arabs agreed to further immigration.

The White Paper was attacked by Zionists throughout the world as a violation of the Balfour Declaration, given in November, 1917, under which the British Government said it viewed with favor "the establishment of a national home in Palestine for the Jewish people." Since the end of the war agitation for re-establishing immigration had been renewed in order to help take care of the hundreds of thousands of homeless European Jews.

Two Jews Killed By Crowd In Hungary

The Miskole incident, in which two Jewish mill owners were killed by a large crowd of iron workers, has created great consternation in Hungary.

Premier Ferenc Nagy and the Vice-Premiers have assured Jewish leaders and a delegation from Miskole that protection will be given and justice will be rendered. Nevertheless, it is learned from Miskole that a crowd of 15,000 workers from the Diosgyoer and Ozd foundries came into Miskole, broke into the jail and released fifteen men arrested for attacking the two Jews. It is reported that a Jewish police officer was killed in this outbreak.

The mill owners had been arrested some days earlier for profiteering. The charges were not considered particularly serious. However, when they were being taken from police headquarters to an internment camp near Miskole, a crowd of workers dragged them to the market-place. One was killed there. An official report said that the crowd had tried to hang them but could not find a rope. The second man was finally rescued by a Russian officer but died of his injuries.

The fact that a third accused profiteer who was not Jewish was permitted by the crowd to escape unharmed is taken as evidence that this is another anti-Semitic outbreak.

A.J.C. Charges "News" Is Anti-Semitic

The petition of the News Syndicate Company, Inc., publisher of The Daily News, for a frequency modulation radio license was opposed at a hearing in the Federal Court Building in New York by the American Jewish Congress on the ground that the policy of the newspaper is anti-Semitic and anti-Negro.

Louis Caldwell, counsel for the applicant, opposed the injection of the question of the newspaper's policies into the hearing.

Will Maslow, counsel for the American Jewish Congress, produced twenty-eight columns from The News and an analysis of news stories in New York morning newspapers to support the Congress' contention.

J. Acfres Guest, regional attorney for the Federal Communications Commission, who presided, refused to accept as an exhibit petitions asking the FCC to deny the application, which Mr. Maslow said had been signed by "roughly 100,000 persons."

Mr. Guest announced the FCC had decided to limit the number of new FM channels in the New York area to five, and has approved the transfer of WINS from Hearst Radio, Inc., to Crosley Corporation.

Hearst Radio, Inc., one of eight applicants for FM licenses, had announced at an earlier hearing, Mr. Guest said, that its FM application would be withdrawn if the transfer of WINS were approved. Bernabr Finn, one of the applicants, had asked for a subpoena for William Randolph Hearst, a request which Mr. Guest observed was "now moot".

Ask Forgery Barred From Mails

Although one of the most notorious forgeries of all time, the "Protocols of the Elders of Zion" continues to circulate and be sold through the U. S. mails.

This anti-Semitic canard is being distributed by Eugene R. Flitcraft, publisher of the Gentile News, under the representation that it is a copy of a genuine document written by Jews as a plan for world domination.

The Commission on Law and Social Action of the American Jewish Congress has asked the U. S. Post Office Department to issue an order requiring the publisher to show cause why the Gentile News should not be barred from the mails pursuant to 39 U.S.C. Section 259 and 18 U.S.C. Section 338. These sections provide that use of the mails shall be barred to those who seek, through its facilities to obtain money by false pretenses.

The Commission's request cites the complete study of the "Protocols" made by Dr. John Shalton Curtiss in his book, "An Appraisal of the Protocols of Zion" and points out that the "Protocols" were judicially labelled a forgery by Mr. Justice Graham of the Supreme Court of the Union of South Africa on August 21, 1934.

By Way of Explanation...

Shortage of new supplies of glass, breakage and the accumulation of stocks of empty bottles in the hands of consumers have created a critical situation in the distribution of bottled beverages. Failure on the part of consumers to return "empties" for re-use has literally created a "bottle-neck" in the distribution process.

A special appeal is currently being made to purchasers of lighter beverages to clear the "empties" from summer cottages and cellars and get them back to the production line. Frozen assets in the form of empty bottles in consumers' hands only gather dust—but when they are returned to the manufacturer they enable a broader distribution of the product. Cartons should also be returned in as good condition as possible as the quantity which can be obtained is restricted.

Why The Hagana Is Strong

It was midnight in Palestine. I was talking to the underground Secretary of War of the Hagana, says Ruth Gruber, in the New York Post.

We discussed the war potential of the Jews. From him and other officers I was to meet later, I learned how the resistance movement of 65,000 front line fighters and its reservoir of soldiers in the entire population of 600,000 were being trained for the coming war of survival.

He told me that every able-bodied Jew in the land belonged to the Hagana. Yet it is no amorphous organization. It is built along strict organizational lines.

Every rank-and-file member of Hagana goes to a special training camp for one or two weeks at least twice a year. Training is at his own expense. He takes leave from his farm or factory or shop. Most employers cooperate so fully with Hagana, since they too are members, that they give their employees two weeks with pay for training purposes. To an employer in Palestine, a simple letter asking his employee to report for training is a military order.

A Hagana boot camp resembles any ordinary training camp in the U.S., Alaska or Europe, only Hagana training is far more intense and its physical strain far greater. The instructors are officers who have served in various armies of the world and have qualified as leaders in special schools run by the Hagana. According to one of my British sources, Hagana has a military academy in Palestine where it trains its higher officers.

The "Secretary of War" told me that a man or woman who completed a two-week training course knows how to handle almost any type of pistol, rifle, light and heavy machine gun, hand grenade, and has some primary training in sabotage and demolition. There are seven special training camps for special jobs, such as communications, supply and first aid.

Hagana, he said, appeals as much to girls as it does to boys. At least 30 per cent of the trainees for front line work are girls. I was to meet girls who were commanders of units which were otherwise manned fully by boys.

While the Anglo-American Committee was sitting in Palestine, a young girl commander was killed by the British. She was Braha Fuld, a medical student, niece of Professor Zondek, co-founder of the famous Ascheim-Zondek test. She had been shot while working along the coast preparing the landing for a ship carrying uncertificated refugees.

For days, people would meet me on the street and say, "Would you like to see a picture of a Jewish terrorist?" They would open their wallets and show me a picture of Braha Fuld's young and beautiful face. Hundreds of people marched in Braha's funeral, most of them with their teeth clenched and their jaws set, but they did not weep. She had died as a hero in the Jewish battle for liberation.

"Our women do everything that men do," the "Secretary of War" was telling me, "with some provisions, of course, for physical differences. They are able to drive tractors and trucks, take rifles apart, and beat the boys in sharpshooting and parachute jumping. They handle whole phases of Hagana work, as first aid, communications and intelligence. But we don't permit them to work on bazookas or machine guns."

I asked him what would happen if he were arrested. "Five men would immediately be ready to jump into my place. If they arrest 1,000 of us, there are 1,000 more. That is the strength of the Hagana —that it is the people of Palestine. In order to liquidate the Hagana, the British would have to liquidate the entire Yishuv (the Jewish community).

"On the land in the settlements every Jew must be able to defend himself. Hagana's duty is to defend the 300 Jewish settlements in Palestine. If a Jew is arrested he will never say, 'I am not a member of the Hagana.' Indeed he will always claim to be a member if he is not one. A man here was condemned to a long prison term on charges of having bought arms from a soldier. He had nothing to do with it at all, but refused to say he was not a member of Hagana. He told the court, 'Every Jew in Palestine is a member of the resistance movement.'

Whenever the British have needed our army, in the riots against the Arabs or in 1942 against Rommel, they gave it semi-legality. Now they want to disarm it completely while they move their installations from Egypt to Palestine.

"I'll tell you what the British ought to do," the jovial "general" said, sipping his tea, "they should pull out the 100,000 soldiers they now have in Palestine and let the 100,000 Jews in. They know very well that Hagana can keep peace in the Holy Land."

The first Jewish broadcast on the Vienna State Radio since the Anschluss took place to mark the 120th anniversary of the famous Vienna synagogue, which was built in 1826. Vienna before the war had 200,000 Jews, one of the largest Jewish communities in Europe, and the great synagogue was the glory of the community. At the time of the ceremony, which was broadcast, there were barely 500 Jewish survivors in the almost then judenrein Vienna.

HINTS on Education

The training of a puppy should begin at the early age of six or eight weeks. One cannot expect a great deal of actual reasoning power, for the ways of human beings are, of course, widely different from the natural instincts of our canine friends. However, dogs are apt pupils and learn quickly.

Obedience should be the first lesson—implicit obedience. It is the one qualification all dogs must have, whether they are to serve only as companions or to prove useful in other fields of activity.

Praise and encouragement are all of the wages a dog asks, but the odd tidbit may be used occasionally as a reward to emphasize your pleasure when the young puppy succeeds in understanding and doing just what you want.

Hello "Butch!"...You love that name don't you? You'd like us to think you're a tough little guy. But you're just a Wire-haired Fox Terrier and, behind your bluff, is a sense of humour, a grin and a grand little heart. You're a ball of fire, a great little playfellow, a good sport and a swell companion for boy, girl or grown-up.

Understand your dog! Get to know his nature. Think through his mind and he will give you back in devotion, love and loyalty all you can ever hope to give him.

U.S. Jewish Adviser Says At Least 257,000 Anxious To Emigrate

The possibilities of finding temporary havens in areas other than the United States zone for some of the 100,000 Jews he expects to leave Poland in the coming year was the subject of conferences held in Paris by Rabbi Philip S. Bernstein, of Rochester, N.Y., adviser on Jewish affairs to Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, United States Military Governor.

Rabbi Bernstein, following his return to Frankfort, Germany, said he found a disposition among officials of the Jewish Agency in Palestine to appreciate the "generous, decent thing" the United States Army was continuing to do in giving haven to persecuted persons in the American zone, as well as the disposition to cooperate in spreading the load. Steps in this direction might include the routing of a larger number temporarily to Austria, to Italy, where Lieut. Gen. Wladyslaw Anders' Polish Second Corps vacated many camps, or to France, which might offer collective visas, especially for groups of children.

Among those consulted in Paris were Dr. Joseph Schwartz, head of the American Joint Distribution Committee; Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, president of the World Jewish Congress, and David Ben Gurion, chairman of the executive committee of the Jewish Agency.

Rabbi Bernstein expressed the opinion that the British plan for a [illegible] partition of Palestine [illegible] Jews in the land they [illegible] 50,000 in Austria, [illegible] in the British and French zones, 30,000 in Italy and many others in the Balkans whose desires and opportunities for leaving cannot be ascertained.

Together with the 100,000 who probably will leave Poland, this makes a total of at least 257,000 Jews anxious to emigrate. While all do not want to go to Palestine, the Anglo-American Commission's figure of 100,000 in any case seems clearly out of date.

Steps are being taken by the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration and the Army to expand existing camps and organize new ones in the United States zone, and authorities agree that there are sufficient physical possibilities of handling an influx of Jews if their stay is not prolonged. Overall arrangements, unfortunately, hang on the uncertainty caused by the probable discontinuance of the UNRRA at the end of the year.

Discussing the situation he found in Poland during a recent trip, Rabbi Bernstein declared that he regarded it as "highly unfortunate" that after all this time and after President Truman's directive reopening immigration quotas, no consular system had been set up in Poland.

"Everything I saw," he said, "pointed to the fact that the Polish Government is trying to do the right thing, first by trying to reestablish normal living conditions for Jews and passing laws against anti-Semitism, and second by placing no obstacles in the way of those who feel they must leave."

Of some 160,000 Jews now in Poland, including those recently repatriated from Russia, the Rabbi believed about 60,000 might remain. These, he said, fall into three groups, some political left wingers, those who have or hope to recover property and those who lately have been established in the formerly German territory of Lower Silesia.

"In Lower Silesia," Rabbi Bernstein disclosed, "the Polish Government has begun a remarkable experiment in providing Jews with land, housing and work."

Four factors, he hoped, would check the spread of anti-Semitism in Poland, among them 70,000 Jews [illegible] the hope of enlisting the

The [illegible] centers of Jews in Poland, the Rabbi said, now are Lodz, with 80,000; Stettin, 16,000; Cracow, 8,000; Warsaw, 6,000, and Breslau, 15,000. Two communities have a majority of Jews—Rzechbach, with 11,000, and Bielawa, with 5,000.

In all these centers, he explained, endemic anti-Semitism constantly expresses itself in robberies, beatings and killings. There is no doubt, he added, that some elements also are exploiting the situation in a campaign against "Jewish bolshevism," although among five leading men in the present Government, there are only three Jews.

Of 80,000 Jews in pre-war Yugoslavia, only 12,000 survive. Most of them, professionals and tradesmen, plan to remain in the country since there is little discrimination.

WARNS OF ENDLESS VIOLENCE UNDER DISTRICT PLAN

The American Council for Judaism, Inc., made public a letter to President Truman stating that endless violence and the perpetuation of nationalistic conflicts would result from any policy that sanctioned and strengthened the forces of division and segregation among those who live in Palestine.

Reports that Jewish and Arab districts be established in Palestine had been recommended by the Anglo-American Cabinet Committee, with each district making its own regulations for the admission of permanent residents; were commented on in the letter.

The letter was signed by Lessing J. Rosenwald, president, and Elmer Berger, executive director, of the council. The writers urged that acceptance of the Cabinet Committee's recommendations be conditioned upon their conformity [illegible] and implementing the Anglo-American inquiry committee's report made public last April.

"Adoption of the Anglo-American report in its entirety is the only hope of permanent solution [illegible] Palestine problem, with assurance of equality of rights and responsibilities of all Palestinians —Christian, Moslem and Jew—the council has stated repeatedly.

"We have urged that this report, unanimously adopted after a thoroughgoing and objective study," the letter to President Truman stated, "be immediately accepted and implemented in its entirety."

"This report embodies these salient conditions: to provide homes in Palestine for 100,000 displaced Jews, wider immigration opportunities throughout the world and peace and security in Palestine by the progressive elimination of the nationalistic rivalries in that country.

"We submit that any policy that sanctions and strengthens the forces of segregation and division among those living in Palestine would mean the perpetuation of antagonistic nationalistic conflicts and endless violence."

A long-range American policy on Palestine was also urged by the council, the letter stating that "failure to establish such a definitive and clear policy in the past has been one of the causes of continuing conflict."

for other reasons, the Administration is eager to do what it can to relieve them. But President Truman, in a meeting with several Congressmen who visited him on the Jews' behalf, emphasized that he was concerned with the displaced-persons problem as a whole.

manent Jewish community of 6,000 to 10,000. Many of those now there will leave but a considerable number of Jews in Britain and Shanghai expect to return. In general, all young people announced their intention to leave as soon as possible. This means that Vienna's Jewish community will continue for a long time to live partly on relief.

Joseph Silber, chief of the JDC's Austrian operations, said that the Jews' lack of economic rehabilitation has in effect made them second rate citizens. He said that the Government had shown no anti-Semitism but rather a friendly tolerant attitude toward refugees from Poland, of whom more than 20,000 have passed through eastern Austria since June 1.

Mr. Silber said that the United States Army's policy toward Jews was above criticism and that both Gen. Mark W. Clark and his deputy had done everything in their power to help the Jews. A new camp for refugees from the Polish terror has been opened to accommodate 5,000. The JDC supports four orphan and convalescent homes in Austria.

Considerable improvement is expected in the position of the 15,000 Jewish refugees in Switzerland as a result of the unanimous agreement of cantonal police heads to allow elderly refugees to reside permanently in the country, and to issue labor permits to refugees, provided Swiss interests were not affected adversely.

Dr. Raffaele Cantoni, president of the Federation of Italian Jewish Communities, in a message to the Swiss government, expressed "profound gratitude" to the Swiss people for the welcome they had extended to exiled Italian Jews during the war.
